

The Earl L. Wiley Outstanding Board Award

Each year, the accomplishments of one board set a new standard for chiropractic regulation.

They become a model for other boards while protecting the health, safety and welfare of the public. They set ambitious goals, and they achieve them.

The FCLB's recognition for outstanding regulatory board is named in honor of Ohio regulator, Dr. Earl L. Wiley.

His desire to protect patients through responsible governance is reflected by many of you, but especially by this year's winner.

We all have a view in our own minds of what ideally a great board should be. But what makes an ideal board?

An ideal board is governed by members with a strong foundation of ethics.

An ideal board maintains a positive relationship with state government, keeping communication strong.

The ideal board has a staff of team players who provide continuity as board members cycle through.

This board offers guidance for its licensees, helping them to be better doctors.

As most of us strive to hold our own boards to these ideal standards, one board serves as both leader and example.
